Fu Kung is a U.S. Marshal, of Chinese extraction, who works undercover in Las Vegas.

This marshal's art is to uncover crooked casino's. To do this he has to work his way through the hidden complex machinery in each casino, making sure that the odd odds can be overcome.

Only if he can get through each casino, without getting electrocuted, crushed or falling from great heights etc, will that casino be considered clean.

To do this, he must first study the layout of each casino, working out the route he must take to collect all four. Of course we all know that none of the casinos in Las Vegas are crooked, so it is possible to check them all out, but Fu Kung has to find out for himself.
