EPILEPSY WARNING

WARNING: READ BEFORE USING YOUR SEGA VIDEO GAME SYSTEM

A very small percentage of individuals may experience epileptic seizures when exposed to certain light patterns or flashing lights. Exposure to certain patterns or backgrounds on a television screen or while playing video games may induce an epileptic seizure in these individuals. Certain conditions may induce undetected epileptic symptoms even in persons who have no history of prior seizures or epilepsy. If you, or anyone in your family, has an epileptic condition, consult your physician prior to playing. If you experience any of the following symptoms while playing a video game: dizziness, altered vision, eye or muscle twitches, loss of awareness, disorientation, any involuntary movement, or convulsions, IMMEDIATELY discontinue use and consult your physician before resuming play.

Starting Up

1. Set up your Genesis System as described in its instruction manual. Plug in Control Pad 1. For two-player games, plug in Control Pad 2 also.
2. Make sure the power switch is OFF. Then insert the Pebble Beach® Golf Links cartridge into the console.
3. Turn the power switch ON. You'll see the Sega screen. Then in a few moments, the Title screen appears.
4. If the Sega screen doesn't appear, turn the power switch OFF. Make sure your system is set up correctly and the cartridge is firmly inserted in the console. Then turn the power switch ON again.
5. Press the Start Button when the Title screen appears.

Important: Always make sure the power switch is OFF before inserting or removing the cartridge.

Direction

Depending on the wind's direction and speed, you may want to change the direction you're shooting. On the left side of the window the view angle is shown. Press the D-Button up or down to change the angle from which you view your shot, and press left or right to change the direction you're facing. To the right is the Shot Radar. This displays wind direction (indicated in blue), the hole (the red dot at the outer edge of the radar) and the view radius (the orange area represents the area you're seeing on screen).

Club

Your caddy will suggest the club with the most appropriate range, but you can select another club with the D-Button. Your choices are:

1W (Driver)	270 yards
3W (3 wood)	230 yards
4W (4 wood)	210 yards
2I (2 Iron)	200 yards
3I (3 Iron)	190 yards

PT (Putter)	100 feet

Stance

Your stance determines whether you'll put a draw (left curve) or a fade (right curve) on the ball. Put a draw on the ball by pressing the D-Button left, and a fade by pressing right.

Swing

On the left side of this window is the power meter. Press Button C to start the swing and press it again when the meter reaches the desired strength (the farther the red bar fills the meter, the higher the power). As soon as you press Button C the second time, a red dot appears on the large golf ball displayed on the right side of the window. This shows you where the club will hit the ball. A hit on either side will put a slice on the ball. Hitting near the top of the ball lowers its trajectory (good when there's a strong headwind). Hitting the ball underneath lifts the ball for greater distance, but if there's a strong crosswind your ball may be carried to wild and uncharted territory—sand traps, water hazards, and the like.

Wind Indicator

The arrow points in the direction the wind is blowing from the tee. Beneath the arrow, the wind speed is shown. Once you're off the tee, use the Wind Indicator on the Shot Radar to see which way the wind is blowing relative to your position.

The Lie

Are you sitting pretty on the fairway, or are you sunny side up in a sand trap? This indicator can help you figure out how strongly you should hit the ball to get it where you want it to be, as well as which club will be of most use to you in the situation.

Tournament Play

Clubs, caddy and confidence? Those are only the basics! A good tailwind wouldn't be unappreciated either. You're up against 47 other pros, all looking at that major cash prize, each with the talent, power and concentration it takes to make it

Stroke Play

In Stroke Play, one or more players compare their playing skills to see who can make 18 holes in the minimum number of strokes. In a one-player game, your "opponent" is the course's par rating, and when you're up against one or more players, you have to beat their scores to win.

Game set up and play is the same as that in the Tournament Play mode, with the following exception: At the end of the hole, the players' current standings are displayed. At the end of the round, the winner is announced.

FRONT NINE

- Hole 1
- Par 4
- Public 338 yds.; Tournament 373 yds.

As you view this short par-4 dogleg right from the tee ground, you might think, "Aw, this doesn't look so tough." Don't be fooled. The tee shot should pose no problem, as the landing area is relatively wide. Hit a slight fade for best distance and position. Your second shot, however, will be tricky. The fairway narrows considerably, and the green is guarded by two deep bunkers. Overall, a difficult starting hole.

- Hole 2
- Par 5
- Public 439 yds.; Tournament 502 yds.

Again, the relatively short yardage of this par 5 may have you thinking "easy birdie." A well-placed tee shot is crucial here, as two monstrous bunkers lie in wait not 100 yards from the tee. Then you have to deal with a long, narrow bunker that runs across the fairway like a small stream, 75 yards from the green. Avoid this at all costs. A well-designed, and relatively difficult hole.

- Hole 3
- Par 4
- Public 341 yds.; Tournament 388 yds.

As with the previous hole, your tee shot will determine your success here. If you play it safe and hit a shorter drive to the right, you'll have a long second shot over two bunkers. If you drive to the left side, your ball may end up in a deep hollow or disappear into the Monterrey pine trees. The area directly behind the greenside bunker is out of bounds. Your best play is to hit a draw right down the middle of the fairway, which will leave you with a 8- or 9-iron approach.

- Hole 4
- Par 4
- Public 303 yds.; Tournament 327 yds.

The fairway is squeezed by a large bunker on the left and the ocean on the right. The pros normally select a long iron for their tee shots here. Avoid the bunker just in front of the landing area. The green is surrounded by sand traps, so play a short approach shot. The green slopes toward the ocean, and is extremely difficult to read.

- Hole 5
- Par 3
- Public 156 yds.; Tournament 166 yds.

The green is well guarded, with a menacing bunker to the right and a deep hollow to the left. This hole plays longer than the posted yardage due to the elevation of the green in relation to the tee ground. Your only chance for a birdie is an incredibly accurate tee shot.

5H 166Y Par3

- Hole 6
- Par 5
- Public 487 yds.; Tournament 516 yds.

This may be both the most beautiful and the most difficult hole on the golf course. The fairway is wide, but the ocean to the right and a sand trap some 100 yards long to the left should remind you concentrate on your tee shot. The major difficulty on this hole is that the green is on a hill, 30 feet above the fairway. With a good tailwind, this green is reachable in two. Two bunkers, behind the green and not visible from the fairway, appear once you get up the hill.

6H 487Y Par5

- Hole 7
- Par 3
- Public 103 yds.; Tournament 107 yds.

Though the pin is but a solid sand wedge from the tee ground, you'll soon understand why this hole is famous the world over. The ocean is visible in almost every direction, and six guardian bunkers wait to swallow up your tee shot. The wind is a major factor here, so choose your club accordingly. Par is nearly impossible from the back side of the green.

7H 107Y Par3

- Hole 8
- Par 4
- Public 405 yds.; Tournament 431 yds.

The fairway is uphill, leaving you a blind tee shot. It slopes dramatically toward the ocean on the right, which might tempt you to aim left. The most direct route to the green passes over a large valley. Get your tee shot as close to the cliff as possible. You can also play to the left, but that will make it nearly impossible for you to reach the green in two.

8H 405Y Par4

- Hole 9
- Par 4
- Public 439 yds.; Tournament 464 yds.

This is considered by many to be the toughest par-4 hole on the course. With the extremely hilly fairway, there's no guarantee that even a great tee shot will give you a good lie for your approach. Try to avoid the deep rough to the right and the bunker that lies 230 yards to the left from the tee. The green is bordered by the ocean on the right and two pot bunkers on the left. A par on this hole is quite an accomplishment.

BACK NINE

- Hole 10
- Par 4
- Public 395 yds.; Tournament 426 yds.

The tenth at Pebble Beach is a straight hole, with the ocean to the right. Keep your tee shot to the left of the fairway, as it slopes toward the water. Yet another 100-yard-long bunker waits greedily to the left. The fairway leading up to the green gets considerably narrower. Just a few yards beyond the green is a cliff, so plan your approach accordingly.

- Hole 11
- Par 4
- Public 374 yds.; Tournament 384 yds.

This is a hole that you can play more aggressively. Aim to place your tee shot beyond the fairway bunker, and hit a fade for your approach. This is especially effective when the pin is in the back right portion of the green. When you're hitting your approach from the right side of the fairway, make sure you put sufficient backspin on the ball. Otherwise you may end up in the bunker on the left side of the green.

- Hole 12
- Par 3
- Public 184 yds.; Tournament 202 yds.

Club selection is the key to success on this long par 3. The bunkers are arranged such that if you misjudge the distance or hit the ball too high, it'll get caught in the ocean breeze and miss the green, possibly ending up in one of the traps. Don't drive over the green, because you probably won't get a clean shot from the deep rough that waits there.

- Hole 13
- Par 4
- Public 373 yds.; Tournament 392 yds.

There's a long L-shaped bunker to the left of the fairway, so aim your tee shot to the right-center. If you can do this and stay out of the trees, your approach shot should be a relatively easy one. However, the surface of the green is particularly hard, and slopes in two directions. To keep out of trouble, aim your approach shot in front of the flag. The entire length of the hole to the right is out of bounds.

- Hole 14
- Par 5
- Public 553 yds.; Tournament 565 yds.

A par on this lengthy dogleg right is a difficult proposition for all but the most accomplished golfers. To the right of the fairway is a strip of rough about 20 yards wide, then out of bounds comes into play. The safe tee shot is to the left of the fairway, but then you must clear a big sand trap on your next shot. When the pin is behind this bunker, on the upper tier of this two-tiered green, your third shot had better be a beauty, or you most likely won't save par. You can fade your tee shot in line with the dogleg for best distance, but watch out for the fairway bunker to the right.

- Hole 15
- Par 4
- Public 366 yds.; Tournament 397 yds.

Long hitters will love this hole. No fairway bunkers, no water—you can blast away with no worries. Just be sure to clear the row of trees which block your view of the fairway. Don't hit a slice, though, or you may go out of bounds to the right. Your second shot will probably be a 9-iron or wedge approach. It should be easy to stop the ball on the green, as it's uphill from the front. The green slopes toward the ocean. Your only trouble on this hole would be the three bunkers guarding the green.

- Hole 16
- Par 4
- Public 388 yds.; Tournament 402 yds.

The greenside gully bunkers and trees make the approach shot quite a challenging one. Long drivers should watch out for the deep rough in front of the two bunkers guarding the green. If you choose to hit a fade from the tee, you could end up in a bunker. The green slopes in two directions, and is hard to read.

- Hole 17
- Par 3
- Public 175 yds.; Tournament 209 yds.

This long par 3 reaches into the ocean. The guardian bunker to the left of the green stretches around to the front as well. Overhitting will probably land you in one of the six bunkers behind the green. Try drawing your tee shot in from the right. The green itself slopes toward the sea in places and away from it in others.

- Hole 18
- Par 5
- Public 538 yds.; Tournament 548 yds.

A beautiful finishing hole for a demanding course. The entire length to the left of the hole is bordered by the ocean. From the tee, watch for the fairway bunker to the right and the trees in the center of the fairway. The approach is best hit from the left side of the fairway, but use caution as there's little room for error.

Your Caddy Has a Few Words for You...

- As the name implies, Pebble Beach is located on the seaside, which virtually guarantees that you're going to be facing strong winds on some of the holes you play. Power will take you part of the way, but you need to get a lot of practice on your draw and fade techniques to set yourself up for those ever-so-sweet approaches!
- In rainy weather, your best bet when putting is to hit the ball with nearly twice as much power as you normally would—even for short putts.
- Don't be tricked into aiming for the flag every time—there's usually a sand trap waiting nearby for overzealous golfers. Every green has a fat spot, and although you might want to go for the chip every time, your best chance of sinking your shot is from a good position on the green. Check out the lie of the green before you make the shot to get on the green and adjust your aim accordingly.
- You're not just paying your caddy to carry your clubs. These men and women have years of experience on the course, and have been there for the holes-in-ones and the triple bogeys. Don't be shy—ask them for some advice when you're in a tricky situation, or even if you just want to get a second opinion on a shot.
- Whoops! you've put a little too much power on your swing—press Button B as the Power Meter is filling to cancel the swing. Pressing Button C from there will start the Power Meter again from the beginning, and pressing Button B again will return you to the Starze Window.
